

Bob Brennan

Chief Executive Officer

Bob Brennan brings more than 25 years of corporate leadership experience to his role of Chief Executive Officer at Veracode. Brennan was previously the president and CEO at Iron Mountain, a publicly traded data protection and information management services company.

At Iron Mountain, Brennan developed and implemented global operating strategies to drive growth, enhance customer service and ensure consistency and efficiency across the organization. He oversaw the company's operations in 39 countries, the worldwide Digital business unit, as well as all enterprise support functions including human resources, information technology, security and global standards. During his tenure, Iron Mountain's revenue grew from $1.8 billion in 2004 to $3.1 billion in 2010. Brennan was previously CEO of Connected Corporation, the market leader for enterprise PC data protection, which was acquired by Iron Mountain.

Prior to Connected Corp., Brennan was a General Manager with Cisco Systems, Inc. for Network and Service Management. He served as president and CEO at American Internet prior to its acquisition by Cisco in 1998. Previous experience includes senior management roles at Merisel, Inc., Microcom Corporation and Microamerica.

Brennan earned a degree in Psychology from Manhattan College.