

Derren Meyer

Senior Security Researcher

Darren Meyer is an AppSec professional with a passion for closing the gaps between development, operations, business, and security. In his role as Senior Security Researcher at Veracode, Derren helps to integrate security expertise into Veracode's technology. His background in software development has informed his security experience, which includes building a security testing program for a Fortune 50 retailer, and security instruction at dozens of organizations around the world.